Conference Theme

“Best Practices for delivery of serviced urban land and affordable housing in Namibia”

Conference Background and Overview

Land Servicing and acute Residential Housing shortages have emerged as our country’s major challenges. Recently, there have also been numerous media reported concerns about shortages of residential houses and poorly constructed/or and uncompleted projects and allegations of construction projects tendering irregularities. While our leadership is tirelessly at hard work to address these challenges as contained in the Harambee Prosperity Plan (HPP), NDP4 and the Ministerial Performance Goals, they can never solve these problems alone. They need the industry’s stakeholder’s full commitment and support.
It is against the above background that the Centre for Training and Projects Development (Pty) Ltd (CTPD) has organized this very critical National Conference on Sustainable Housing and Construction Project Management (NCSHCPM) 2016 to bring together all the Housing and Construction stakeholders and experts to share, discuss, exchange and learn from each other the modern industry practices and strategies that can help the industry to effectively support and contribution towards the realization of the Harambee Prosperity Plan (HPP) and the NDP4 Goals related to Land Servicing, Residential Housing, Construction Projects at large and Ethical Tendering Procedures in general.

The conference comprises of a series of sessions, panel and group discussions to provide a critical action learning platform to participants through sharing practical strategies of implementing effective land servicing within the public sectors. This will enable Namibian public organizations to cement skills and capabilities to understand effects and consequences of poor housing and construction execution and how to prevent such costly pitfalls; Learn from others how to keep construction projects on track, on time, on budget, how to fix problems when good projects deviate from planned standards, effectively monitor quality standards of cleared land and constructed houses for sustainable human inhabitancy; Develop or improve skill sets that allow to effectively monitor quality standards of serviced land and constructed houses for sustainable human inhabitancy.
Conference Aims and Objectives

Specifically, the conference aims to achieve the following objectives:

- Comprehension and alignment of the Harambee Prosperity Plan goal number 8 with the existing and planned Residential Land Servicing and Sustainable Housing and Construction projects to ensure effective realization of the overall goal;
- Gain skills for project cost estimation, project scheduling, and managing key business concepts in the field of Residential Land Servicing, Housing and Construction;
- Learn how to manage unexpected and difficult situations;
- Learn how to plan and execute sustainable housing and construction work/projects;
- Share knowledge and learn how to effectively monitor quality standards of serviced land and constructed houses for sustainable human inhabitancy;
- Share knowledge and learn how to keep construction projects on track, on time, on budget, how to fix problems when good projects deviate from planned standards, effectively monitor quality standards of cleared land and constructed houses for sustainable human inhabitancy;
